Steps for COVID-19 Safe Behaviour in the Workplace

What is social distancing?

One way to slow the spread of viruses is social distancing (also called physical distancing). The more space between you and others, the harder it is for the virus to spread. Social distancing includes ways to stop or slow the spread of infectious diseases. It means less contact between you and other people.

Why is it important?

Social distancing is important because COVID-19 is most likely to spread from person-to-person through:

- Direct close contact with a person while they are infectious or in the 24 hours before their symptoms appeared.
- Close contact with a person with a confirmed infection who coughs or sneezes.
- Touching objects or surfaces contaminated by a person with a confirmed infection, and then touching your mouth or face.

What else can I do?

- If you are sick, stay away from others - that is the most important thing you can do.
- Wash your hands frequently with soap and water, before and after eating, and after going to the toilet.
- Cover your cough and sneeze, dispose of tissues, and use alcohol-based hand sanitiser
- If unwell, avoid contact with others (stay more than 1.5 metres from people)
- At times you may be required to undertake health monitoring, this may include temperature checking and / or answering a health questionnaire

These simple, common-sense actions help reduce risk to you and to others. They will help to slow the spread of disease in the community - and you can use them every day - in your home, workplace, school and while out in public.

Steps for practicing COVID safety in the workplace include:

- Stop shaking hands to greet others
- Hold meetings via video conferencing or phone call
- Hold essential meetings outside in the open air if possible
- Promote good hand, sneeze, and cough hygiene
- Provide alcohol-based hand rub for all staff and workers
- Eat lunch at your desk or outside rather than in the lunchroom
- Regularly clean and disinfect surfaces that many people touch
- Open windows or adjust air conditioning for more ventilation
- Limit food handling and sharing of food in the workplace
- Avoid non-essential travel
- Use appropriate PPE where required
- Consider if you can reschedule, stagger, or cancel non-essential meetings

Developed a fever or cough?

- Isolate yourself
- Call your doctor
- List travel history
- Cover your cough
- Wash hands often

This COVID-19 situation is changing rapidly, and you're encouraged to keep up to date by visiting the following website:

On Assignment

The following are guidelines to aid your success as a HOBAN Recruitment on-hire employee.

Please familiarise yourself with these guidelines each time you commence a new assignment with HOBAN.

Guidelines to follow whilst on assignment

- Be on time - In fact, try and be a little early for your assignment. If you are running late or will be away sick, you must call HOBAN Recruitment and advise us before your assignment is due to start. Reasonable notice of absence is minimum one hour before your start time that day.
- Be professional - Remember that your approach and attitude are also measures of your work performance.
- Dress appropriately for each assignment - Your HOBAN consultant will let you know the work environment you will be going to, and what standard of dress is expected. If you are ever in doubt, dress conservatively on the first day.
- Don't be afraid to ask questions on the job - If you have any queries about work instructions, office hours, or client facilities, don't hesitate to ask your supervisor or HOBAN Recruitment. If you have queries or problems with the assignment overall, call your HOBAN consultant immediately.
- Clarify policy - Take time to familiarise yourself with workplace policies. If you are unsure about expected conduct, ask your manager or the HOBAN Recruitment team. Please check with HOBAN prior to agreeing to work overtime.
- Limit personal calls whilst on assignment - It is strongly advised that you refrain from making or taking personal calls during time which is being billed to the client. Phone calls of a personal nature should be arranged during breaks. In the case of an emergency, it is most important to ask permission prior to making any personal calls.
- Mobile phones - Please ensure that all mobile phones are switched off whilst on assignment.
- Email, intranet and internet - Do not use email or the internet for your own personal use whilst on assignment. Do not retain any documents, computer disks or physical objects on which confidential information is stored. Please refer to our Email, Intranet and Internet policy.
- Confidentiality of information - You may, in your assignment have access to confidential information. Please refrain from discussing the specific details of your work with anyone but your immediate supervisor. You may also be exposed to gossip and internal issues. Please ignore them, as in most cases it pays to maintain a neutral stance.

- Client confidentiality - Please keep in mind that the confidentiality agreement you have signed in your employment contract not only covers the information you have been privy to whilst on HOBAN Recruitment assignments, but also the names of those companies. For example, do not include the names of those companies on your resume or work application forms.
- Change of details - If you are moving to a new house or have a new phone number or email address, please inform your HOBAN Recruitment consultant in writing as soon as possible. This ensures that you will continue to receive pay advice and correspondence from HOBAN Recruitment and will also help your consultant to contact you easily in the case of a possible assignment.
- Skills updates - One of the advantages of being an on-hire employee is gaining experience across a range of industries, in various roles, as well as being exposed to learning new skills along the way.
- Contact - If you have a direct line on assignment, please provide this to us so we can contact you easily.

By keeping your HOBAN Recruitment consultant informed of your new skills, you will be put forward for more advanced roles, sometimes with higher rates.

This will also ensure that your on-hire assignments are professionally challenging and rewarding.

It is very important to call us when:

- You cannot attend your assignment due to illness or any other reason. Please ensure you give as much notice as possible. See our contacts section at the front of this handbook.
- The skills required do not match the assignment description provided by your consultant.
- To advise us of any new skills acquired whilst on assignment.
- If you are offered permanent work whilst on assignment.
- If you have not been inducted at the start of your first shift.
- If you have not been inducted and trained on the equipment you are asked to use.

Important Payroll Information

Employment Conditions

When employed on client assignments with HOBAN Recruitment, your terms of employment will be based on your On-Hire Employment contract.

Each time you work at a client site, your consultant will advise you of the relevant pay and conditions which will apply. If you have an On-Hire Casual Employment Contract, your pay rate includes casual loading which is in lieu of payment for annual leave, sick leave and public holidays. If you have any questions regarding the terms and conditions of your employment, please contact your consultant.

Length of On-Hire Assignments

On-hire assignments may vary in length. When you are assigned by HOBAN Recruitment, we will brief you on the anticipated length of each assignment. Remember that several factors can cause your assignment length to increase or decrease. Changes to internal workload, operational requirements and budgetary funding can all impact - sometimes at short notice. If you have any questions regarding assignment length, please contact your consultant.

Payment of Wages

For each week (Monday to Sunday), a timesheet must be completed. Many client sites use HOBAN's online timesheets. These can be accessed via our website from the HOBAN On-Hire Employees page.

Many sites also use group timesheets or time clocks, and you will be advised of this on a case-by-case basis.

Payment of wages will be made via direct debit into your nominated bank account in Australia.

Your pay advice will be sent electronically via email upon payment of wages into your bank account each week or fortnight in line with the terms of the applicable award or contractual agreement. Please note that timesheet completion and submission is your responsibility. If you do not ensure that it is authorised and sent accordingly, you may not be paid.

Completing your Timesheet

Accurately complete the date and time you commenced each day, as well as the number of minutes taken for your meal breaks. Please total each day's hours and at the end of the week total it to the nearest quarter hour.

On completion of your assignment (or Friday of each week if the assignment is longer than 1 week) please submit your timesheet using our online timesheet facility for approval by your supervisor.

It is your responsibility to get your timesheet to us. Please note the deadline for timesheets is 9.00am MONDAY. No processing of late timesheets will take place. In the case of a long weekend, your timesheet must reach us by 9.00am Tuesday morning. A pay advice slip will be sent electronically via email to you each time you are paid by us.

Online Timesheets

- If you complete an online timesheet:
- Complete your online timesheet by 5.30pm Friday (or over the weekend if you work)
- Ensure you submit your timesheet. This will alert your timesheet authoriser to authorise your timesheet.
- Check the status of your online timesheet. If it still reads Pending Approval it still has not been authorised and cannot be processed for payment.
- It is your responsibility to ensure that your timesheet status changes from Pending Approval to Ready for Interpretation on Monday.
- If your timesheet is not authorised on time, your pay may be delayed until the following week.

Therefore, please ensure that your timesheet is authorised in a timely manner so that HOBAN Recruitment can pay you on time.

If you would like payroll to check that your timesheet has been imported and will be processed, please email payroll@hoban.com.au.

Superannuation

As part of our service to all on-hire staff, HOBAN Recruitment participates in the Federal Government's Superannuation Guarantee Scheme.

Superannuation is remitted into funds on a monthly basis by the end of the month, for the previous month.

Our Client (Host Employer) Obligations

Upon commencement of each assignment, your site supervisor/manager should conduct an induction specific to their workplace. Evacuation procedures, injury reporting and safe work methods should be covered, along with site specific policies (e.g. Internet / EEO / Manual Handling etc.). If the client does not complete an induction with you, please advise your HOBAN consultant immediately.

It is HOBAN Recruitment's aim that each on-hire employee, contractor or successfully placed permanent applicant be provided with a safe and healthy place in which to work.

However, safety at work is both an individual and shared responsibility and ultimately rests on the willingness of everyone to cooperate and work collectively.

Specific Safety Policies

Site Safety Rules are those rules that generally apply to all employees and contractors. For example:

- Buildings must be promptly evacuated when the evacuation alarm sounds, via the nearest nominated emergency exit. Employees are to follow the direction given by evacuation wardens.
- Specific Work Procedures and Safety Rules that apply to individual jobs must be followed at all times.
- Employees must always use personal protective equipment or other protective equipment provided for specific tasks if this is required by our client.
- Exits, fire extinguishers, hose reel cupboards and hydrants must be kept clear at all times. It is an offence to use such equipment for purposes other than to fight a fire. Storage of any materials in hose reel or electrical cupboards is strictly prohibited.

- All injuries or incidents are to be reported to first aid attendants and accidents or near miss accidents not involving injury must be reported to the Work Health Safety Officer.

Client Induction

Ensure the client completes a safety induction prior to you commencing work.

If an induction is not carried out, request one and let your HOBAN consultant know immediately.

Make sure you understand all instructions before commencing work.

Emergency Evacuation Steps

- Alert tone - “Beep Beep” sounding tone. Stop working and prepare to evacuate.
- Evacuate tone - “Whoop Whoop” sound accompanied by a voice message, advising staff to evacuate the building. Follow the instructions of the wardens on how to safely evacuate your work area.

- You may be required to undergo random drug and alcohol testing at registration and/or whilst on assignment with HOBAN.
- HOBAN administers a drug and alcohol assessment whenever an incident, injury or accident occurs.

Any employee who disregards these guidelines will be disciplined, and a breach of this rule may result in termination of your assignment and your employment with HOBAN Recruitment.

Office Safety

- Ensure you properly adjust your workstation before commencing work.
- Your chair should be adjusted so that your knees are at 90 degrees to the chair when seated. Make sure the chair supports your lower back.
- Your monitor should be directly in front of you at eye level. Documents should be placed alongside the monitor to minimise head movement.
- Objects that you frequently use should be located within easy reach to avoid overstretching.
- Your mouse should be to the immediate right or left of the keyboard.
- Take regular “stretch” breaks.

Physical Fitness

Your HOBAN consultant will explain the physical requirements of each assignment. To ensure your health and safety, please make the consultant aware of any pre-existing conditions that may affect your work performance while on site.

Psychosocial Health and Safety

Your HOBAN consultant will explain the HOST site surroundings and environment for each assignment. To ensure your Mental Health and safety, please make the consultant aware of any pre-existing conditions that may affect your work performance while on site.

A psychosocial hazard is anything that could cause psychological harm (e.g. harm someone's mental health like bullying or harassment). Please report any workplace injuries, incidents, or hazards to both the client and HOBAN Recruitment as soon as practically possible.

- Ensure that you are wearing ALL necessary protective equipment.

Outdoor Workers

- If you are working outdoors (e.g. Local Council workers), please be aware of needle stick hazards. ALWAYS wear appropriate gloves when gardening, digging, rubbish collecting etc. The workplace should provide specific training in this area.

To protect yourself from the sun, you must wear a long-sleeved shirt, long pants, a wide brimmed hat, sunscreen, sunglasses or protective glasses, as well as drink plenty of water.

- Hearing protection must be worn where it has been assessed an area has hazardous noise levels. These areas may also have been labelled with appropriate signage.
- Some portable equipment may also require the operator to use hearing protection (for example, anglegrinders). These areas may also have been labelled with appropriate signage.

- Suitable footwear is essential and must be worn at all times.

Please note that failure to wear steel capped boots when required will result in you being unable to commence work.

What is hazardous manual handling

Hazardous manual handling is work which requires a person to use force to lift, lower, push, pull, carry, move, hold or restrain something. It's hazardous manual handling if it involves;

- Repeated or sustained application of force
- Sustained awkward posture
- Repeated movements
- Single or repeated use of high force, where it would be reasonable that the person may have difficulty undertaking it. For example, lifting a heavy object.
- Exposure to sustained vibration
- Handling live people or animals
- Handling tool that are unstable, unbalanced or hard to hold or grasp

Hazardous manual handling doesn't just involve heavy objects. Pruning plants, staking items onto a shelf, helping a person into a bath and even using a keyboard are all examples of hazardous manual handling.

If you are conducting any of the above please follow the Safe Manual Handling Procedures.

To avoid the risk of a muscular skeletal disorder, please consider;

- Postures
- Movements
- Forces
- Duration and frequency of the hazardous manual handling
- Environmental factors

Manual Handling

If your job involves lifting, protect your back. Think before you lift!

- Assess the load, action and movement, location of load and distance moved.
- Your posture - remember to lift from the knees with a straight back.
- If the load is too heavy for you, ask for assistance.
- Where possible use a mechanical aid such as a trolley/lift to assist.
- Do not attempt to lift any object beyond what feels comfortable.
- Strong muscles are not developed by straining. If in doubt, ask for help with lifting. Always remember to bend your knees and not your back. Always have a firm grip on the load. Learn the correct way to lift and do not try to be a “human crane”.
- Where manual handling aids are provided, they must be utilised.
- Use only the lifting equipment designed and provided for the job to be done. Never use lifting equipment which you have reason to believe may be faulty.
- Never improvise with lifting gear, as this could lead to serious accidents.

Employee Responsibilities

As an employee you also have a general duty to cooperate with your employer’s efforts to make the workplace safe. This duty may include using manual handling equipment properly and following workplace policies and procedures. You must also attend health and safety training (including any training conducted on our client sites) and not taking shortcuts that could increase hazardous manual handling risks.

You can also help make the workplace safer by notifying HOBAN Recruitment of any hazardous manual handling you become aware of.

Work Health Safety

We value your feedback about WHS matters. You are welcome to contact your HOBAN Recruitment consultant, account manager or HOBAN Recruitment’s RTW and Safety Manager Alyssa Shoppee:

EEO, Anti-Discrimination & Harassment Policy

This policy sets out the rights and responsibilities of our employees as well as candidates, applicants, contractors, interns and other individuals who are engaged within HOBAN Recruitment (staff) in relation to equal employment opportunity ("EEO"), anti-discrimination, harassment (including sexual harassment) and bullying. It also sets out the procedure for dealing with behaviour relating to these issues which may arise in the workplace.

This policy applies wherever and whenever staff may be as a result of their duties with HOBAN Recruitment, whether on-site, off-site or after hours work, at work-related social functions or conferences, and any other physical or virtual place where the conduct:

- has caused (or is likely to cause) serious damage to the relationship between the relevant staff member and HOBAN Recruitment; or
- where the conduct is otherwise incompatible with the duty of a staff member. For example, this may include sexual harassment of a colleague outside work.

It is our expectation that at all times, your behaviour reflects the spirit of applicable legislation and this policy. Importantly, you must treat others with respect and in a professional manner, and you must not engage in any unlawful conduct, including unlawful discrimination, harassment or bullying.

EEO and anti-discrimination

HOBAN Recruitment is committed to the principle of EEO, and aims to foster an environment where all staff enjoy fair access to employment opportunities. Employment related decisions relating to Recruitment, Retention, Promotion and succession planning, Performance Management & Training and Development are based on merit and relevant matters concerning the person's ability to fulfill inherent job requirements.

We are also committed to principles of anti-discrimination and aim to prevent unlawful discrimination in the workplace.

Discrimination is less favourable treatment, directly or indirectly, that relates to a person's protected attribute. Protected attributes include:

Race or ethnicity	Marital status	Religious beliefs	Physical features
National origin	Pregnancy	Political conviction	Irrelevant criminal record
Sex or gender identity	Family or carer responsibilities	Industrial activity	Age
Sexual preference or lawful sexual activity	Breastfeeding	Disability	Personal association with a person with any of the mentioned attributes

Direct discrimination occurs when a person is treated less favourably than another, in the same or similar circumstances, simply because they have a protected attribute.

Indirect discrimination occurs when a policy or requirement which at first glance seems fair, but in fact operates unreasonably to the detriment of a particular group of people because of a protected attribute.

Unlawful discrimination can occur in the recruitment process, during the course of employment or upon termination of employment. It can also occur in the provision of goods or services.

There are exceptions from anti-discrimination law which may apply in some situations - for example, because of the requirements of a particular job.

All staff have the right to work without fear of unlawful discrimination.

Unlawful discrimination is not tolerated by the Company and will be treated seriously. This could include termination of a staff member’s contract.

Harassment and bullying

We also aim to provide an environment in which people can work without the distress or interference caused by harassment or bullying.

Unlawful harassment and bullying are unacceptable and will not be tolerated in any circumstances.

Appropriate disciplinary action may be taken against any person(s) who have engaged in unlawful harassment or bullying (including, in the case of a supervisor or manager, those who have knowingly tolerated such behaviour). This action could include termination of a staff member’s contract.

Harassment is any uninvited, unwelcome and offensive behaviour and can include verbal, written, visual or physical communication to or about another person. Unlawful harassment can involve unwelcome and offensive behaviour that relates to a person’s protected attributes.

Sexual harassment is unlawful conduct which is behaviour of a sexual nature that is:

- unwelcome; and
- where a reasonable person would have anticipated the possibility the other person would be offended, humiliated or intimidated.

Sexual harassment includes behaviour that creates a sexually hostile or intimidating environment, and can include:

Unwelcome touching or cornering	Staring or leering	Sexually suggestive comments or jokes
Displaying sexually explicit pictures	Unwelcome requests for sex	Intrusive questions about someone's private life
Unwelcome comments about someone's physical appearance	Inappropriate advances on social networking sites	Accessing sexually explicit internet sites

Sexual harassment can be physical, verbal, or written, and can occur in person, on paper, or by phone, SMS, e-mail, the internet or intranet or any other means of communication.

Sexual harassment has nothing to do with mutual attraction or friendship.

A single incident is enough to constitute sexual harassment - it doesn’t have to be repeated.

Sex-based harassment is unlawful conduct which means:

- Unwelcome conduct of a demeaning nature against a person because of the person’s sex (or a characteristic generally appertaining or imputed to the person’s sex (eg. anatomical attributes));
- Where a reasonable person, having regard to all of the circumstances, would have anticipated the possibility the other person would be offended, humiliated or intimidated.

Sex-based harassment does not need to be of a sexual nature. Rather the focus is on whether the harassing conduct is engaged in by reason of the other person’s sex. For example, statements such as ‘women are not as smart as men’ are likely to constitute harassment on the ground of sex.

Bullying is repeated, unreasonable or inappropriate workplace behaviour directed towards a staff member or a group of staff which creates a risk to health and safety. Bullying can include:

Verbal abuse, such as swearing, threats, insults, name calling	Inappropriate interference with personal belongings or work equipment	Unjustifiably threatening dismissal
Threatening body language or violence	Practical jokes	Unreasonably undermining work performance
Continual and unreasonable criticism	Deliberately withholding work-related information or resources	Deliberately supplying incorrect information

Reasonable management action is not bullying. The Employer is entitled to reasonably direct and control how work is done. For example, objective comments about observable performance deficiencies delivered in a reasonable manner do not constitute workplace bullying, nor does engaging in reasonable disciplinary action.

Hostile workplace environments

It is unlawful to subject another person to a workplace environment that is hostile on the ground of sex.

An unlawful hostile work environment occurs when:

- A person engages in conduct in the workplace; and
- Another person is in the workplace at the same time as or after the conduct occurs; and
- A reasonable person would have anticipated the possibility of the conduct resulting in the workplace environment being offensive, intimidating or humiliating to the other person by reason of their sex (or a characteristic generally appertaining or imputed to their sex).

Accordingly, all staff must act consistently with this policy and our expectation of a positive and inclusive work environment.

Perpetuation of an unlawful hostile workplace environment is unacceptable and will not be tolerated in any circumstances.

Appropriate disciplinary action may be taken against any person(s) who have engaged in such conduct. This action could include termination of a staff member’s contract.

Victimisation

Victimisation is unlawful conduct which means treating someone detrimentally because they have:

- asserted their rights under equal opportunity or anti-discrimination law;
- made a complaint, or it is believed they intend to make a complaint;
- helped someone else make a complaint; or
- refused to do something because it would be discrimination, sexual harassment or victimisation.

Unlawful victimisation is unacceptable and will not be tolerated in any circumstances.

Appropriate disciplinary action may be taken against any person(s) who have engaged in unlawful victimisation. This action could include termination of a staff member’s contract.

Criminal Behaviour

Unlawful harassment, discrimination, bullying and victimization may be offences under criminal law. For example, sexual harassment can also constitute a criminal offence where it involves:

- Physical molestation;
- Indecent exposure;
- Sexual assault;
- Stalking; and
- Obscene communications (telephone calls, text messages, letters, emails etc.)

If HOBAN Recruitment suspects that a criminal incident has occurred, the victim of the behaviour will be advised to report the matter to the police and / or other relevant authorities.

Procedure for dealing with discrimination, harassment and bullying

If you experience any behaviour that you find offensive, if at all possible tell the person concerned that you object to their behaviour and do not want it repeated. It is important to focus on specific behaviours concerned and explain why you find them offensive. This may be all that is required to put an end to the matter. The person may not realise that their behaviour is offensive and may stop once they are made aware.

If this does not resolve the situation, or you feel unable to approach the person or it is inappropriate to do so, you are encouraged to discuss the problem with your direct supervisor, next level manager or contact officer.

All discussions will be treated seriously, confidentially and impartially.

The contact officer is also available to provide information on discrimination, harassment and bullying policies and to talk about your specific issue. The role of the contact officer is to discuss available options, which may include discussing the issue with the person in question and/or a supervisor or manager, conciliation/ mediation or making a complaint.

If a complaint is substantiated, HOBAN Recruitment will take appropriate action. What is appropriate will depend on the particular circumstances and is at the sole discretion of HOBAN Recruitment.

If the complaint is not substantiated, the outcome of the investigation will be discussed with the complaining party to the extent that HOBAN Recruitment determines to be appropriate in the circumstances.

If an employee is found to have breached this policy, he or she may be subject to appropriate disciplinary action. This disciplinary action may include termination of employment (including termination of employment without notice).

Anyone found to have used this policy to raise a malicious or deliberately false claim may face disciplinary action.

This policy does not form part of any employee's contract of employment, and can be amended or withdrawn at any time at the discretion of HOBAN Recruitment.

Summary

From 26 August 2024, there are changes to casual employment. These include:

- ▶ a new definition of 'casual employee'
- ▶ a new pathway for employees to request to change from casual to permanent (full-time or part-time) employment
- ▶ new requirements for providing the Casual Employment Information Statement (CEIS).

If your employment started before 26 August 2024 and you were correctly classified as a casual then you are still casual under the new definition. Go to our website for more information at fairwork.gov.au

Read this statement to find out more.

When should I get this statement?

The CEIS needs to be given to new casual employees before they start employment, or as soon as possible after. The CEIS also needs to be provided to all casual employees again after:

- ▶ 12 months of employment for casual employees of small businesses
- ▶ 6 months of employment, 12 months of employment, and every subsequent period of 12 months of employment for casual employees of non-small businesses.

Who is a casual employee?

You may be a casual if when you start employment:

- ✓ there is no firm advance commitment to ongoing work, taking into account a number of factors, including the real substance and true nature of the employment relationship; and
- ✓ you're entitled to a casual loading or specific casual pay rate under an award, registered agreement, or employment contract.

This requires consideration of the practical reality and true nature of the employment relationship, not just what is in the employment contract. You can also look at any additional mutual understandings or expectations about the relationship.

Employees who start as a casual will stay casual until their employment status changes either through:

- ▶ changing to permanent employment under a pathway in the National Employment Standards (NES), a Fair Work instrument such as an award or enterprise agreement, or a Fair Work Commission order, or
- ▶ accepting an alternative employment offer and starting work on that basis.

Not sure if you're covered by an award or agreement?

Some awards and agreements have additional entitlements for casual employees.

Visit fairwork.gov.au/awards and fairwork.gov.au/agreements

What is a 'firm advance commitment'?

To work out if there is a firm advance commitment to ongoing work, you'll need to consider if:

- ▶ your employer can offer or not offer work to you (and whether this is happening)
- ▶ you can accept or reject work (and whether this is happening)
- ▶ it's reasonably likely there will be future work available of the kind that you usually perform in the employer's business, based on the nature of the business
- ▶ you have a regular pattern of work
- ▶ there are full-time or part-time employees performing the same kind of work in the employer's business that you usually do.

There may also be other relevant factors. Not all factors need to be satisfied and there is no single deciding factor that determines whether you are casual or not. The practical reality and true nature of the employment relationship needs to be considered.

Example of no firm advance commitment

Priya starts a new role as a shop assistant. The shop owner has hired Priya to work during the Christmas period, when the shop is busier than normal, and they need extra staff.

Priya is offered shifts a week in advance and the shifts vary week-to-week based on how busy the store is. Priya can decide whether or not she wants to work the shifts, and her pay rate includes a casual loading. Towards the end of the Christmas period, business starts slowing down and Priya receives fewer shifts.

Priya is a casual employee because:

- ▶ there's no firm advance commitment to ongoing work
- ▶ she receives a casual pay rate.

How can I change from casual to permanent?

Eligible casual employees have the right to notify their employers in writing to change to permanent employment under the employee choice pathway in the NES. An employer can only not accept the notification on particular grounds.

You're entitled to notify your employer if:

- ▶ you've been employed for at least 6 months (or 12 months if you work for a small business)
- ▶ you believe you're no longer meeting the definition of a casual employee
- ▶ you're not currently engaged in a dispute with your employer about changing to permanent employment under this pathway
- ▶ during the last 6 months:
 - > you haven't resolved a dispute with your employer about the pathway
 - > your employer hasn't refused a previous notification under this pathway.

Note: Sometimes casual employees work a regular pattern of hours. This doesn't mean they're permanent.

What you need to do

If you're eligible and want to notify your employer to change to permanent, make the request in writing.

What your employer needs to do

If they're accepting the change, they must respond in writing within 21 days of receiving your notification. They must also consult with you about the following matters, which have to be included in the response:

- ▶ what your new employment status will be (for example, full-time or part-time)
- ▶ your new hours of work
- ▶ when the change will take effect (which must be the first day of your first full pay period that starts after the response, unless you and your employer agree to another day).

If they're not accepting the change, they need to consult with you and tell you the reasons why in writing within 21 days of receiving your notification.

An employer can only not accept a notification to change to permanent if any of the following apply:

- ▶ the employee still meets the definition of a casual employee
- ▶ accepting the change means the employer isn't complying with a recruitment or selection process required by law
- ▶ there are fair and reasonable operational grounds for not accepting it, such as:
 - > substantial changes to the way that work within the business is organised would be required
 - > there would be significant impacts on the operation of the employer's business
 - > substantial changes to employment conditions would be reasonably necessary to ensure the employer doesn't break rules (such as in an award or agreement) that would apply to the employee.

Important

Under the NES, all notifications and responses about an employee's choice to change to permanent employment must be in writing. 'In writing' can include handwritten, printed, and electronic formats.

More information

For more information about casual employment, an employee's choice about casual employment, and casual conversion prior to 26 August 2024, go to fairwork.gov.au/casual and fairwork.gov.au/employeechoice

What if my employer disagrees with me about changing to permanent?

If you and your employer disagree about changing to permanent employment, including the rules and requirements for changing from casual to permanent employment, there are steps you can take to resolve it.

- ✔ Step 1: In the first instance, you and your employer must try to resolve the dispute by discussions at the workplace level. You can use our free online courses linked below to help you do this. If you're covered by an award or enterprise agreement, you can also follow the process that it sets out for dealing with disputes about the NES.
- ✔ Step 2: If discussions at the workplace level don't resolve the dispute, either you or your employer can refer the dispute to the Fair Work Commission (the Commission). The Commission may deal with the dispute as it considers appropriate. This can include by mediation, conciliation, or by other informal ways.
- ✔ Step 3: If the dispute still isn't resolved, the Commission is able to arbitrate the dispute. This is a formal process and can result in a legally binding decision (for example, at a hearing). During arbitration, the Commission can also make orders relating to an employee's choice about casual employment including that the employee continues to be treated as a casual employee or that the employee be treated as a permanent employee.

Depending on your circumstances, you may be able to have someone to support or represent you through the dispute process. This could include a union entitled to represent you.

Can my employer avoid following the rules?

Your employer can't do certain things to avoid their obligations or your right to change from casual to permanent employment, such as reducing or varying your hours of work, changing your pattern of work, or terminating your employment. These are called the anti-avoidance protections.

If your employer does any of these things, it may also be adverse action. You are protected against your employer taking adverse action against you because you have or exercised a workplace right (which includes notifying your employer to change from casual to permanent employment). If unlawful adverse action is found to have occurred, civil penalties could apply. For more information, visit fairwork.gov.au/protections.

🐷 Your pay

Your minimum pay rates are in your award or enterprise agreement. If there isn't an award or agreement for your job, you must get at least the National Minimum Wage. Minimum pay rates are usually updated yearly.

Find out what you should get at fairwork.gov.au/minimum-wages

National minimum wage From 1 July 2024	 $24.10 per hour or $915.90 per week (based on a 38 hour week) for full-time employees	 $24.10 per hour for part-time employees	 $30.13 per hour for casual employees

Flexibility

After 12 months employment, you may have the right to make a written request for flexible working arrangements. This includes if you're pregnant, 55 or over, a carer, have a disability, are experiencing family and domestic violence, are supporting a member of your immediate family or household who is experiencing family and domestic violence, or are the parent of, or have caring responsibilities for, a child of school age or younger. Employers need to follow certain rules for responding to a request for flexible working arrangements, including responding in writing within 21 days. Find out more about the rules for flexible working arrangements at fairwork.gov.au/flexibility

You and your employer can also negotiate an individual flexibility arrangement. This would change how certain terms in your award or enterprise agreement apply to you. An individual flexibility arrangement must be a genuine choice, it can't be a condition of employment. The arrangement must leave you better off overall.

Right of entry

Union officials with an entry permit can enter the workplace to talk to workers that they're entitled to represent. They can also enter to investigate suspected safety issues or breaches of workplace laws.

They must comply with certain requirements, such as notifying the employer, and can inspect or copy certain documents. Strict privacy rules apply to the permit holder and their organisation. They also apply to your employer. The rules protect your personal information. Find out more about entry permits at fwc.gov.au/entry-permits

Agreement making

Employers and employees (or their representatives, like a union) can negotiate for an agreement for their workplace. This process is called 'bargaining' and must follow set rules. The Fair Work Commission checks and approves agreements. For information about making, varying, or terminating an enterprise agreement visit fwc.gov.au/agreements

Transfer of business

If a transfer of business occurs, your employment with your old employer ends. If you're employed by the new employer within 3 months to do the same (or similar) job, some of your entitlements might carry over. This may happen if, for example, the business is sold or work is outsourced. Find out about the rules for a transfer of business at fairwork.gov.au/transfer-of-business

Protections at work

All employees have protections at work. You can't be treated differently or worse because you have or exercise a workplace right. For example, the right to request flexible working arrangements, take leave, or make a complaint or enquiry about your employment.

You have the right to join a union or choose not to, and to take part in lawful industrial activity or choose not to.

You have the right to talk about (or not talk about) your current or past pay. You can also discuss the terms and conditions of employment that would be needed to work out your pay, such as your hours of work. You can also ask other employees about their pay and terms and conditions of employment, but they don't have to tell you.

You have protections when you're temporarily away from work due to illness or injury. You are also protected from discrimination, bullying, sexual harassment, coercion, misrepresentation, sham contracting, and undue influence or pressure. Find out more about your protections at work at fairwork.gov.au/protections

Find information about bullying and harassment at fairwork.gov.au/bullying-harassment

Ending employment

When your employment ends, your final pay should include all outstanding entitlements. This includes wages, unused annual leave and long service leave.

You may be entitled to notice of termination, or pay instead of notice. If you're dismissed for serious misconduct, you're not entitled to notice. If you resign you may have to give your employer notice. You can check if notice is required and what should be in your final pay.

Visit fairwork.gov.au/ending-employment

If you think your dismissal was unfair or unlawful, you have 21 calendar days to lodge a claim with the Fair Work Commission. Rules and exceptions apply. Find out more about unfair dismissal at fwc.gov.au
